USD meeting

The Board of Trustees of the Upland Elementary School District has temporarily called off plans to store school buses and an underground gasoline tank at Baldy View School.

About forty homeowners of the Baldy View area met with trustees Tuesday night and voiced their concern about the noise, gasoline fumes, traffic, vandalism, safety hazard and invasion of privacy the presence of the buses could bring to their neighborhood.

The Board voted unanimously to halt all plans to move the buses from their present location and authorized school superintendent John Rodriguez to negotiate a short-term rental to store the buses at the Ninth Street leased facility for 90 to 120 days.

One homeowner suggested the matter be turned over to the newly-formed citizens committee. Board President William Rugg hinted that this would happen.

Rodriguez is scheduled to report on his negotiations with the Ninth Street landlord at the August 3 school board meeting.

Book bargains offered

Bargains, Anyone? is the theme of the Upland Library Third Annual Book Sale set for July 30, 31 and August 1, at the library. Mrs. Althea Correll, president of the Friends of the Upland Public Library, who are sponsoring the sale, states that there will be bargains to suit everyone's purse, from 10¢ on up.

Sorting and pricing of books will take place on July 28 and 29 when books may be brought to the "D" Street entrance on the south side of the library. "Volunteers are welcome in this operation," said Mrs. Glenn Deal, who with Mrs. Correll, Clint Thompson, Mrs. Arthur Bridge and Ian Brodie, will be receiving books brought at that time. Mrs. Franke, librarian, will have a volunteer sign-up sheet at the circulation desk.

All books are acceptable for the sale: modern, or old books from the 1800's, technical and business books, children's books, religious books, sets of books, even foreign language books; also records, new or old, sheet music, prints, and National Geographic magazines. Books may be deposited at any time in the large trunk near the circulation desk.

Membership in the Friends is open to anyone interested in supporting the library in its service to the community. The Board of Directors for this year, according to the slate presented by Judge Henry Busch at the annual meeting, include: Mrs. Correll, president; Mrs. Philip White and Clint Thompson, first and second vice presidents; Mrs. Glenn Deal, secretary; Robert Thrall, treasurer; and members Judge Henry Busch, Mrs. Arthur Bridge, Ian Brodie, Mrs. Paul Hottel, Mrs. John Skewis, Francis Wass, and Dr. Kenneth Wilcox.

New telephone number

Citizens desiring to discuss business matters with the Upland Fire Department can now reach on-duty firemen through the normal Upland City Hall phone number, 982-1352, simply by asking for the Fire Department. The change from a separate business number for the Fire Department which used to be 982-1338 to the general switchboard of the City Hall will provide more rapid communications with the Fire Department.

The emergency fire telephone number remains 982-1551, but this number should NOT be used for other than emergency calls to the Fire Department.

Chaffey placement test

Prospective new full-time students at Chaffey College will have four more opportunities to take the college placement test in time for fall quarter registration.

A registration requirement, the test will be offered on July 31, Aug. 11, Aug. 21 and Sept. 1. Appointments must be made by calling the guidance office receptionist at 987-1737 or 822-7456 well in advance of the test date.

Registration for the fall quarter will be on Sept. 1-2 and Sept. 15-16. However, both prospective full-time students and part-time students must apply for admission and meet certain requirements prior to registration.

Petition circulated

Seventy-five people signed a petition circulated by an Upland man requesting the Board of Supervisors to require welfare recipients to work for their welfare money.

The petition circulated by Frank Santilli, 140 N. Second read, "We, the taxpayers of San Bernardino County, hereby request that a law be enacted that every able-bodied welfare recipient have to work for their welfare in San Bernardino County."

The two-page petition dated July 14, was mailed to Supervisor Daniel D. Mikesell along with a news clipping of a story of welfare recipients working for their checks in New York State.

Mikesell's office acknowledged receipt of the petition. Santilli told the New he circulated the petition because "the taxpayers have to get a break somewhere."

Carriers support prexy

Branch 2168 (Upland) National Association of Letter Carriers agreed with other California letter carriers in a stand not to support a postal strike unless called by National President James H. Rademacher.

In a message delivered to the Upland News, Charles Zwerner, president of Upland Branch 2168, said, "It was felt among letter carriers gathered in Los Angeles that a wild car strike could jeopardize the newly won negotiating procedure of the United States Postal Service. Willing to give the new system an opportunity to work, a resolution was read and approved to this effect."

Indecision 'fore' golf course

The City Council still has not decided whether or not it will lease city land to Welsh Development Corp. for a golf course in the northwest sector of the city.

The special committee designated to study the Welsh proposal met with the developers Monday morning and presented them with a list of nine items to be "fully satisfied by the proponents if the city is to look favorably on the request of the Welsh Corporation for use of City land."

1. The developer must furnish a complete feasibility study.

2. The City will require the benefits and advantages afforded other land owners, need to review and inspect all other leases and consideration must include a percentage of the gross green fees.

3. The Benson Avenue frontage must be purchased by the developer within five years at the going market value, but in no case less than the City's investment.

4. The greenbelt acreage must be purchased within ten years under the same conditions.

5. If any section of 14th Street is vacated east of Benson, it must be extended to 13th Street or 15th Street and right-of-way dedicated.

6. The matter of water supply must be resolved.

7. Cable interests must agree to the master plan for Cable Airport and the master plan must be adopted.

8. The "clear zone" must be kept clear of obstacles and obstructions at all times. Fairways, trees and greens can occupy the free zone, but no buildings, trees or permanent objects.

9. The city buildings on 15th Street must either be kept for rental or acquired by Welsh Corporation.

Michael R. Quinn, the Upland attorney representing the developer made an answer to all nine points at Monday night's Council meeting and pushed for an immediate resolution.

Time to go

The fifty-year-old Horak building, 125 North Second Street, withstood the 1913 fire, housed an early branch of the Upland post office and one of the earliest pool halls. It was the first business address for many local businesses, and now it must go. Unless a plan to bring the old building up to code is presented to the City Council by August 5, demolition will be ordered.

Lacking members, interest and financing

'Operation Cheer' needs cheering

"Operation Cheer" isn't so cheer-filled these days.

According to Henry Duran, president of the organization, the problem seems to be lack of interest and members. Duran says this seems strange in view of the number of servicemen from the Upland-Ontario-Cucamonga area serving in Vietnam.

Operation Cheer is the group that sees to it each man whose name they have been given and who is serving in the combat zone in Vietnam, receives a monthly "cheer package." The packages vary in their contents, but can contain popcorn, soup (the non-smellable kind), gum, canned goods, puddings, raisins, white socks, cookies, razor blades, toothpaste, brushes, combs. On the serviceman's birthday, Cheer makes sure they receive a wallet.

More than 65 packages, valued at $5 each, are sent to Vietnam each month. That is, almost every month. "No packages were sent in June," Duran said. "About one month a year is rough. We had to write the boys this month, each of them, that there were no funds to send the packages."

It really hurts, according to Duran, when they receive letters, as they often do, noting, "We just wait for your little packages." Some of the boys offer to send money to insure that others, perhaps their friends, receive the Cheer packages.

Because of the soldiers "passing on" Cheer to their buddies, the group now has more out-of-state boys on the roster than local ones, Duran hastens to assure this is not by choice.

"There are plenty of local boys we would be happy to send packages to. We need the parents to give us the names and addresses."

There are about 12 active members of Cheer, but there are 300 names that "used to belong." Apparently, according to Duran, some people work with Cheer while their sons are overseas, then drop out, physically and financially, when the boys return. "What about us? (the Durans) We don't have anybody over there but we still care."

Members are asked to pay $1 a year, the main mailing costs are raised through fund-raising events such as the recent taco dinner.

Duran said the finances were "pretty bad right now." There is about $100 in the treasury, but they need at least $406.25 per month just to buy the contents for the boxes and mail them insured. "If nothing comes up, this will be out last year," Duran said. "But we're going to try awfully hard not to disband this thing."

Donations of any kind will be cheerfully and gratefully accepted by Cheer. New members, who need only give a few hours each month, are badly needed.

Coupons from the ads for Bill's Ranch Market may be sent to Cheer for use in purchasing food for the boxes.

The developers agreed to the city demands with the exception of purchase time of the two pieces of property. Quinn asked for an extension to seven years as a deadline for purchasing the Benson frontage and 12 years to purchase property in the free zone.

"We were taken aback this morning with a proposal to purchase the property outright," Quinn told the Council.

Quinn reiterated his request at the July 5 Council meeting for an answer prior to August 15 so the developer can get fill dirt from a Corps of Engineers' project at no cost.

City Attorney Donald Maroney asked for time to study the developer's written nine-point answer to the city's demand.

When Roger Cable pressed for an answer, "by the end of this week," the Council agreed to call a special council meeting later in the week to resolve the matter.

Old Upland landmark faces uncertain future

Many Upland businesses got their start in the old two-story frame building at 125 N. Second that will be demolished unless a buyer can be found.

Don's Electric located at 758 E. Arrow Highway started there in 1954 and occupied the building for two years.

An antique and glass shop occupied the building for the next ten years until it was bought out by the Mobleys and became the Upland Glass Company.

That was the last time the old building was occupied. When Upland Glass moved to its present location, the city building inspector said the building was unrentable.

"Old timers who came into our shop used to talk about the old building," Mrs. Mobley said. "They remembered when it used to be a post office and another time a pool hall. They told us that the ladies would bring their knitting, and knit while their husbands played pool."

No one knows exactly when the old building was built. Mrs. Mobley has a 1910 photograph with the building standing, but she thinks it goes back much further than that.

Walter Horak purchased the building as a possible civic center site. "There was talk at that time of locating the civic center down on Second Street," Harland Horak said. "My father bought the building from Mrs. Latouie and told the city council when they needed the property they could have it for exactly what he paid for it. But time passed and another council was in city hall and the civic center was never put on that site."

Mr. Horak has been asked to present a plan for bringing the building up to code by August 5 or it will have to be demolished. He is trying to find a buyer, but is not optimistic.

Fire district merger favored by local chief

Fire Chief Leon Lamphear would be in favor of a merger of seven Pomona Valley cities' fire districts, including Upland.

He told the City Council Monday night that some duplication of effort and much expense could be saved.

Lamphear, Councilman John McCarthy and City Manager Elwin Alder met with fire chiefs, city administrators, and mayors of Pomona, Chino, Claremont, Montclair, Ontario and La Verne.

The city officials of all seven cities agreed that a single fire fighting unit to cover the entire Pomona Valley could be established in either of three ways, a merger of the seven districts, the creation of a giant fire protection district with its own taxing power, or mutual aid agreements among the seven departments.

While a merger or the creation of one large fire district would represent a greater savings to the city, either would be more difficult to accomplish, the fire chief said. "We would like to see true mutual aid in these areas," he said.

The Council directed City Manager Alder to investigate the cost to the city to conduct a joint feasibility study with the other six cities on some form of merger.

Cheer's banner

Mrs. John Hoover, left, shows Henry Duran, president of Operation Cheer and Mrs. Helen Stott, a past president, the flag she made for Cheer. It took two months of her time while she was recuperating from an operation. The exact facsimile of the flag is made of ribbon roses on styrofoam. Mrs. Hoover, who lives in Ontario, has a son serving in the Navy and the flag "just seemed to represent what our boys are fighting for," she said.

Bill's Ranch Market, headquarters of Cheer since its inception, allows $100 a month on food purchased for servicemen. Meetings of Operation Cheer are held the third Tuesday of each month at the market. Packaging meetings take place the second Wednesday of each month at the market.

How about spreading some Cheer?

Cancer Society Crusade chooses neighborly way

UPLAND -- In such Upland West End communities as Alta Loma and Cucamonga house-holders are called upon by an American Cancer Society volunteer in the current educational and fund-raising appeal. At each door she leaves a leaflet listing cancer's seven warning signals and services which the Society offers locally. She also picks up contributions for support of the Society's never-ending programs of research, service and education.

Mrs. Williams is this year's Cancer Crusade chairman in Alta Loma. In Cucamonga, Lee Sherrard is the Crusade chairman; Mrs. Gilbert is in charge of the residential Crusade.

The city of Upland employs the "Neighbor-to-Neighbor" concept of fund raising. Mrs. Gerard Rawle, Upland's Residential Crusade chairman, states, "This kind of participation is very important to the success of our April Crusade. If your neighbor on the left handed you an American Cancer Society fund-raising packet the other day and you haven't yet given it to your neighbor on the right, now is the time to pass it on."

About forty per cent of the packets have already been picked up again by an ACS volunteer, but the rest are still out," Mrs. Rawle expressed gratitude to householders in Upland for their cooperation in keeping the kits moving.

Chaffey College trustees endorse proposed budget

A publication budget of $6,842,544, geared to a 7 per cent student population growth, was endorsed by the Chaffey College Board of Trustees at the July 14 meeting.

The college emphasized that the 1971-1972 budget has been largely determined by an estimated enrollment of 8,100 students, a gain of 500 over the year before. The public hearing on the budget will be at 7:30 p.m., Aug. 3.

The budget exceeds that of last year by $349, 734 and is keyed to slightly more than a one cent increase in the tax rate or .5944 cents per $100 of assessed valuation. Chaffey Community College superintendent T. Stanley Warburton reported that this tax rate runs to about eight cents under that of the average community college district for 1970-1971.

Business manager Robert E. Totten noted that $118,000 earmarked for facilities and equipment, has been carried forward which would cut the $349, 734 increase to a net difference of $241,734.

The superintendent said that "community services are provided only after needs have been justified by community groups, the staff and the Board of Trustees."

The construction tax of .0020 was eliminated in fiscal planning for the year. The only construction scheduled is a $44,000 office addition for new business education staff, already funded in the year just ended.

The tax required to meet the 1958 bond issue will be reduced from .0492 to .0416 as bonds are retired.

In other action, the board:

---Allocated $5,375 to extend the health service for students through the evening hours by putting on a second nurse.

---Approved a contract for new history instructor Janice L. Sumler, who has the B.A. and the M.A. degrees from UCLA.

---Appointed Dr. Lester Stroh, newly seated trustee, as a representative to vote in the election of members of the San Bernardino County Committee on School District Organization.

This increase is designed to underwrite instruction for the anticipated 500 additional students and to respond to district needs in terms of adult education and community services.

The board adopted the public budget by a 4-1 vote. The dissenting vote was cast by Mrs. Georgia Mellon.

Dr. Warburton said the district would continue its effort for more "state and federal support to permit essential growth and afford proportionate relief to local property taxes."

He indicated the district was "holding the line" on the adult education tax at .0817, actually down three mills from the previous year, and the general purpose tax at .3586.

Plans for a more definitive community services program, emphasizing short term courses, were reflected in a community service tax rate of .0446, compared to last year's .0298.

Voorman Clinic expands facilities

UPLAND -- The Voorman Clinic, 1125 East Arrow Highway, will expand its facilities for the fourth time in seven years.

A 720 sq. ft. addition to house an additional single therapy room and one group therapy room will be built next to the existing building.

The seven year old Voorman Clinic is a psychological testing center and psychiatric clinic dealing with marital, emotional, adolescent and children's problems.

Dr. Voorman started as a clinical psychiatrist at 270 E. 7th Street.

The new addition is expected to be completed in a month. Dr. Voorman is also director of the Mental Health Unit at San Antonio Community Hospital.

Follow the mission trail

For your link with California's colorful mission era during which the Franciscan padres took upon themselves the task of converting and educating the Indians, those of you living in or visiting southern California can drive on El Camino Real from Santa Barbara to San Diego.

On a hilltop overlooking graceful Santa Barbara and its picturesque oceanfront, points out the National Automobile Club the twin towers of Mission Santa Barbara give her the regal dignity responsible for her fame as the "Queen of Missions."

Indeed, of those buildings most often photographed, this mission ranks first in California, second only to the Empire State Building in all of North America.

From downtown Santa Barbara the route to this mission, which was named after the patron saint of the mariners, takes you north on State Street to Los Olivos Street, where you turn right and continue on to your destination.

Once there you'll spend some thrilling moments looking at the altar flame that has burned from the mission's founding in 1786, through disaster periods that left the other missions deserted and in ruins, to the present day.

As you probably know, California also has its "King of Missions," the largest and richest in the past. You'll want to study for yourself its amazing size and architectural beauty. To reach this Mission San Luis Rey de Francia, founded on June 13, 1798 and the 18th of the California missions, head south on El Camino Real or U.S. 101 for about 180 miles until you hit Oceanside. There get on State Highway 76 and go east until you find this California landmark near the town of San Luis Rey.

Now restored as a Franciscan seminary, Mission San Luis Rey has beautiful gardens for you to stroll through, a fascinating museum for you to investigate, and splendid interior for you to enjoy. In the latter, not the lofty beamed ceilings and the original Indian decorations.

Finally you go south again on El Camino Real for about 40 more miles to land in San Diego and nearby Mission Valley, which cradles the mission of many firsts.

Founded on July 16, 1769 to become California's first mission and first white establishment on the West Coast, reports NAC, Mission San Diego de Alcalá served as the site for the building of the first palm and olive trees.

To arrive at this historic place, take Interstate 8 east through Mission Valley. One mile east of the Mission Valley Shopping Center you drive off the freeway to the right. In a lovely setting of gardens you'll find the mission with its interesting museum that contains many early liturgical relics. Of special interest are those records in Father Serra's handwriting.

Other southern California missions include Santa Ines, San Buenaventura, San Fernando Rey de Espana, and San Juan Capistrano. Adding these or several others to your itinerary will make your link with the mission era all the more complete.

Over 200 miles you'll go for this rewarding experience.

Before vacation check gas system

While summer is the time for vacations, hours at the beach and favorite outdoor sports, it is also the season for painting and cleaning homes inside and out.

It is also a good time to clean and check gas appliances to insure they are operating efficiently, according to gas company economist Anne Fortini. The home economist suggests the following operating and maintenance tips to aid homemakers in keeping gas appliances in top condition.

* Gas range burners should burn with a steady blue flame. If they turn yellow, they could be clogged. Just lift out and wash them. If this doesn't do the trick, call an appliance dealer or the gas company to adjust them. * Sift from cooking is not caused from the fuel but from the cooking process itself. Water and grease vapors as well as cooking oils and fats are given off by food. To reduce cooking vapors and fats, keep pans covered, and gently simmer food.

* If you have a gas dryer, don't overload it or overdry clothes. Clean the lint filters after each load and occasionally wipe the inside of the dryer with a damp cloth.

* The water heater should be checked periodically. It is a good idea to have rusted or loose fitting vents or flue pipes replaced.

* Sometimes a little dirt or lint can cause trouble in a wall or floor heater or furnace. It is important to keep burners and controls in these units clean. Keep an eye on furnace filters to make sure they are cleaned or replaced periodically.

* Gas air conditioning units should be changed more often. They are inexpensive, readily available and easy to change.

"The efficient operation of clean and well-maintained appliances is well worth the time it takes to complete the task," the home economist concluded.

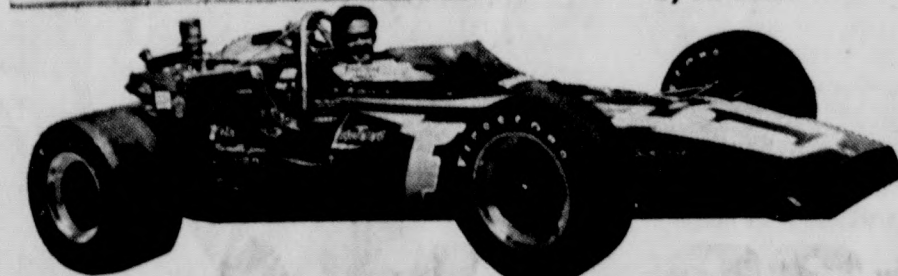

Award winners

Three Chaffey College students were the winners in the annual competition keyed to architectural residential design sponsored by the Building Industry Association (Baldy View Chapter). Showing their individual trophies (from right) are Robin Fordyce, Upland, first prize; Larry Taylor, Ontario, second, and Jan Black, Corona, third. They are flanked by Gerald Laird, Claremont, Baldy View Chapter president, and Harold Crowell, La Verne, awards committee chairman. Crowell is holding the perpetual plaque, bearing the names of each year's winners.

Frank Angulano and Miguel Rodriguez will be enrolled in the Indian sand painting class under the instruction of Indian artist and author David Villaseñor.

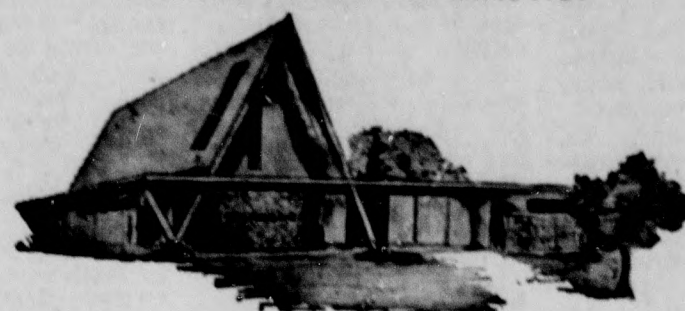

Library plan to provide immediate best sellers

UPLAND -- In order to bring best sellers to the public at the time of peak demand, Mrs. Louise Franke, Librarian, has asked the Friends of the Upland Public Library to provide the McNaughton Plan Service. This is a revolving book service providing high-demand book titles and will be paid for by the Friends of the Library.

The collection is kept current by the addition each month of new books and the return of those in which reader interest has diminished. Having available several copies of the most popular books will reduce the waiting time on the reserve list. This plan is presently in operation at the Upland Library and has been enthusiastically accepted by the public, according to Mrs. Franke.

CHURCH NEWS

Baptist Women

MONTCLAIR -- The Bethany Baptist Church of Montclair will hear Miss Emma Brodbeck, retired missionary to China, speak at the birthday luncheon of the American Baptist Women of the local church.

After her retirement, Miss Brodbeck wrote a book, "Farewell to China," and returned to the Philippines and served with the Peace Corps. The salad luncheon will be held in the church's fellowship hall Tuesday, July 27 at 12:30 p.m. Entertaining will be the "Sounds of Joy" a group of singers from the Brethren in Christ Church of Upland.

Christian Science

UPLAND -- What is eternal truth? This is a question to be considered at Christian Science church services Sunday.

"Study to shew thyself approved unto God, a workman that needeth not to be ashamed, rightly dividing the word of truth," one of the Bible verses will state. The subject of the Lesson-Sermon is "Truth."

Supporting commentary from Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy includes this citation: "Material sense does not unfold the facts of existence; but spiritual sense lifts human consciousness into eternal Truth."

Services at First Church of Christ, Scientist, 1429 No. Euclid Ave., begin at 11 a.m., and are open to all and child care is provided.

YOUTH ACTIVITIES

Troop 326

MONTCLAIR -- The Holcomb Valley Scout Reservation was the site of the recent meeting of the Boy Scouts of Montclair, Troop 326.

This week, five members will hike the fifty-mile Golden Eagle trail at the Circle B Scout Ranch in the Sierras. Leading the march will be Howard Thompson and Bob Thompson, assistant scoutmasters.

Eight members have received the personal fitness badge. They are Peter Rogers, Steve Gordon, Chuck Gossow, Joe Graff, David Campbell, Steve Evans, Paul McLaughlin and Allen Morriett.

Highlighting August activities will be the troop's annual summer camp which will be held this year at Camp Haulcucah in San Diego County.

Summer Frolics

UPLAND -- The West End YMCA is presenting a unique program for the boys and girls 6-12 called "Summer Frolics."

This program includes not only fun-filled activities but also provides valuable skill training and character building activities. Some of the activities scheduled are swimming at the Upland pool, movies, crafts, archery, riflery. Something of interest for everyone.

The session runs Monday, Wednesday and Friday, 1 to 5 p.m. through July 30. There is a fee of $1 per day or $10 for the entire session per child. For further information, contact the West End YMCA at 986-5847.

CC slates free play

Lewis John Carlino's "Telemechus Clay," a provocative example of experimental theater, will be staged at Chaffey College, July 29, 30, 31.

The three performances will be in the little theater at 8:15 p.m. Directing the mid-summer presentation by a community player group will be Clifford L. Sumrall. There will be no admission charge.

Definitely for a sophisticated audience, the play centers on a young writer from "Downsville" (which could be Any Town, Middle West) who tries to make it in Hollywood. He doesn't.

Cigarettes injure unborn babies

Expectant mothers who smoke cigarettes jeopardize the health of their unborn babies, a new American Cancer Society leaflet entitled "Women and Cigarettes" reveals, according to Dr. Terry Reynolds, president of the San Bernardino County unit.

According to the leaflet, which Dr. Reynolds said shatters some long-standing myths about women and smoking, "there are a greater number of 'low birth weight' babies--that is, babies weighing less than the normal average," born to smoking mothers.

The leaflet reports that women began smoking regularly after World War I when it became socially acceptable. This is the reason that lung cancer death toll among women originally was a fraction of that for men. But this is no longer true, Dr. Reynolds pointed out. "Women who smoke run a five times greater death risk of dying from lung cancer than non-smoking women, and the ugly statistics continue to mount," he declared.

The leaflet also spells out other hazards women smokers face, such as increased risk of mouth cancer, bronchitis, emphysema and heart disease; more working days lost through illness; and increasing the odds that her children will smoke.

The "Women and Cigarettes" leaflet and other literature is available at the Society's local office.

County AID boosted

Payments totaling $418,172.05 to local and national health and community welfare agencies were announced today by the Board of Directors of San Bernardino County AID-United Givers.

The record sum represents contributions through AID by individual employees as well as gifts from many area companies, during the period of May 1, 1970 to April 30, 1971.

Checks were issued by AID as follows: $226,442.03 to San Bernardino County Community Chests and United Funds for support of their hundreds of agencies, $47,351.15 to American Red Cross Chapters, $45,007.87 to the American Cancer Society, $1,780.78 to the Arthritis Foundation, $12,514.36 to the City of Hope, $16,345.51 to the Easter Seal Society, $19,137.64 to the Hearst Association, $49,592.71 specifically designated by individual givers.

With these payments, San Bernardino County AID has collected and distributed over $4 1/2 million to health and welfare causes in the area and elsewhere during its 16 years of operation.

AID's cost of operation, for some time the lowest in the nation, is approximately 5% of funds collected.

ORDINANCE NO. 921
AN ORDINANCE OF THE CITY OF UPLAND, CALIFORNIA, AMENDING THE UPLAND MUNICIPAL CODE, ARTICLE II, CHAPTER 4, PART 2, RELATING TO CIVIL DEFENSE AND EMERGENCY ORGANIZATION

The City Council of the City of Upland, California, does ordain as follows:

SECTION 1. The Upland Municipal Code, Article II, Chapter 4, Part 2, of the Upland Municipal Code, comprising Sections 2420.10 to 2420.15, is hereby amended to read as follows:

EMERGENCY ORGANIZATION AND FUNCTIONS

Section 2420.1 Purposes. The declared purposes of this part are to provide for the preparation and carrying out of plans for the protection of persons and property within this city in the event of an emergency; the direction of the emergency organization and the coordination of the emergency functions of this city with all other public agencies, corporations, organizations, and affected private persons.

Section 2420.2 Definition. As used in this part, "emergency" shall mean the actual or threatened existence of conditions of disaster or of extreme peril to the safety of persons and property within this city caused by such conditions as air pollution, fire, flood, storm, epidemic, riot, or earthquake, or other conditions, including conditions resulting from war or imminent threat of war, but other than conditions resulting from a labor controversy, which conditions are or are likely to be beyond the control of the services, personnel, equipment, and facilities of this city, requiring the combined forces of other political subdivisions to combat.

Section 2420.3 Disaster Council Membership. The Upland Disaster Council is hereby created and shall consist of the following:

A. The Mayor, or in his absence Mayor Pro Tempore, who shall be Chairman

B. The Director of Emergency Services, who shall be Vice Chairman

C. The Assistant Director of Emergency Services

D. Such representatives of emergency services as are provided for in a current emergency plan of this city.

E. Such representatives of civic, business, labor, veterans, professional, or other organizations having an official responsibility, as may be appointed by the Director with the advice and consent of the City Council.

Section 2420.4 Disaster Council Powers and Duties. It shall be the duty of the Upland Disaster Council, and it is hereby empowered, to review and recommend for adoption by the City Council, emergency and mutual aid plans and agreements and such ordinances and resolutions and rules and regulations as are necessary to implement such plans and agreements.

The Disaster Council shall meet upon call of the Chairman or, in his absence from the city or inability to call such meeting, upon call of the Vice Chairman.

Section 2420.5 Director and Assistant Director of Emergency Services.

A. There is hereby created the office of Director of Emergency Services. The City Manager shall be the Director of Emergency Services.

B. There is hereby created the office of Assistant Director of Emergency Services, who shall be appointed by the Director.

Section 2420.6 Powers and Duties of the Director and Assistant Director of Emergency Services.

A. The Director of Emergency Services shall request the City Council to proclaim the existence or threatened existence of a "local emergency" immediately after it appears that such a "local emergency" exists or is threatened. If the Council is not in session, the Director of Emergency Services shall immediately cause a request for a special meeting of the City Council to be delivered to each Councilman who can be located.

B. The City Council shall have the power to declare a "local emergency" or to request the Governor to proclaim a state of extreme emergency when in their opinion, the resources locally available are inadequate to cope with the emergency.

C. In the event that a quorum of the City Council cannot meet within one hour after issuance of a request for a special meeting, pending said meeting and subject to City Council action, the Director of Emergency Services is hereby empowered to:

1. Issue a proclamation of a "local emergency." Such proclamation must be ratified by City Council at the earliest possible time and if not ratified within 7 days, it shall have no further force or effect.

2. Request the Governor to proclaim a "state of emergency" following the same guidelines as apply to City Council.

D. The Director of Emergency Services is hereby empowered to control and direct the effort of the emergency organization of this city for the accomplishment of the purposes of this part.

E. The Director of Emergency Services is hereby empowered to direct coordination of services and staff of the emergency organization of this city, and to resolve questions of authority and responsibility that may arise between them.

F. The Director of Emergency Services is hereby empowered to represent this City in all dealings with public or private agencies on matters pertaining to emergencies as defined herein.

G. In the event of the proclamation of a "local emergency" by the Governor or the Director of Emergency Services, or the existence of a "state of war emergency," the City Council or, if it has not yet met, the Director is hereby empowered:

1. To make and issue rules and regulations on matters reasonably related to the protection of life and property as affected by such emergency; provided, however, such rules and regulations are subject to confirmation at the earliest practicable time by the City Council;

2. To obtain vital supplies, equipment, and such other properties found lacking and needed for the protection of life and property and to bind the city for the fair value thereof and, if required immediately, to commandeer the same for public use;

3. To require emergency services of any City officer or employee and, in the event of the proclamation of a "state of emergency" in the county in which this city is located or the existence of a "state of war emergency," to command the aid of as many citizens of this community as he deems necessary in the execution of his duties; such persons shall be entitled to all privileges, benefits, and immunities as are provided by state law for registered disaster service workers;

4. To requisition necessary personnel or material of any city department or agency.

H. The Disaster Council shall designate the order of succession to the office of Director of Emergency Services to take effect in the event the Director is unavailable to attend meetings and otherwise perform his duties during an emergency. Such order of succession shall be subject to approval of the City Council.

J. The Assistant Director shall, under the supervision of the Director and with the assistance of emergency chiefs, develop emergency plans and manage the emergency programs of the city; and shall have such other powers and duties as may be assigned by the Director.

any provision of this ordinance or the application thereof to any person or circumstances is held invalid, such invalidity shall not affect other provisions or applications, and to this end the provisions of this ordinance are declared to be severable.

SECTION 5. The Mayor shall sign this Ordinance and the City Clerk shall attest to the same, and the City Clerk shall cause the same to be published within fifteen (15) days after its passage, at least once in the Upland News, a newspaper of general circulation, published and circulated in the City of Upland.

Big lift

Operator at Reliance Steel and Aluminum Co.'s SupraCote coil coating division, Cucamonga, guides 12,600 pound aluminum coil from "pigeonhole" storage racks in new 30,000 square foot plant addition. His "helper" is a heavy-duty sideloader truck. Racks provide damage-proof storage for more than 400 aluminum coils, weighing up to 15,000 pounds each, as they await precoating.

Employers reminded of deadline

Monday, August 2, is the deadline date for filing a contribution return and report of disability insurance wages, form DE 7003, for the second quarter of 1971. H. M. Lohan, Tax Administrator for the State Department of Human Resources Development in San Bernardino today reminded employers of agricultural employees and nonprofit or district hospital employees.

State pays back

'In Lieu Tax'

San Bernardino County is scheduled to receive $2,627,439.69 in a reported distribution of $153,275,200 as a partial advance on county and city shares of State-collected "in lieu" vehicle license fees, State Senator William E. Coombs disclosed recently.

An additional $2,016,299.23 is scheduled for distribution to 14 San Bernardino County cities, the Rialto solon said.

The statewide distribution represents 75 per cent of vehicle license fees the State expects to receive during the six-month period ending May 31, Senator Coombs said.

A report by State Controller Houston I. Flournoy pointed out that half the total was distributed to California's 406 incorporated cities, with the other half being shared by the 58 counties. Because the fees take the place of a local property tax on vehicles, the cities and counties may use their shares for general purposes.

Payments to San Bernardino cities included: Montclair, $115,095.46; and Upland, $166,170.15.

Should you pay your carrier . . .

or not?

You don't have to. It's purely a matter for you to decide.

This newspaper is what is called in newspaper circles, a controlled circulation newspaper. There are dozens across the country—enough even to have conventions. The purpose of a controlled circulation newspaper is to provide local news, local service and local advertising to an important, independent, interested community which could not on its own support a daily newspaper.

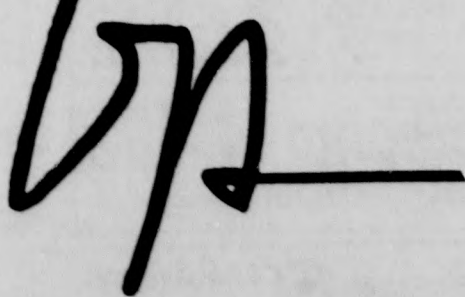

But where does your carrier come in? He is paid a minimum allowance for delivering your local newspaper. He depends on you, really for his income, because when he collects, most of it is his. Controlled circulation newspapers work like that, on a voluntary pay plan.

We hope you appreciate and enjoy your newspaper enough to voluntarily pay your carrier. He is dependable. He is rendering you a service. He would like to earn the money. Pay him? Think about it.

Wheelchairs contributed

You may have heard that Casa Colina is in urgent need of wheelchairs.

Ten of the needed fifteen chairs have been assured by funds received from area service clubs and corporations, but $1500 is still required to complete the project, according to Harry K. Zeller, director of development at the hospital.

"We are gratified especially that the people of this region understand the dilemmas of those who are disabled and are willing to give solid assistance," says Zeller.

In the course of therapy Casa Colina supplies wheelchairs on a temporary basis to patients receiving rehabilitative treatment at the hospital. New therapy methods initiate the use of a wheelchair as soon as possible following the occurrence of disability, to enable quicker and more successful restoration of function. In addition, increased numbers of out-patients receiving treatment have contributed to the current shortage of wheelchairs.

Interested persons or organizations are invited to assist Casa Colina in securing the five wheelchairs still needed. Funds for wheelchairs have been provided by Claremont and Pomona Kiwanis clubs, Covina Rotary Club, Pomona Lions Breakfast Club, San Gabriel Valley Women's Club, Pomona Breakfast Optimists Club, The Ebells of Laguna Hills, Security Pacific Bank of Claremont, Catron Motors, Inc. of Pomona, and several anonymous contributors.

"Contributions in any amount are most welcome," says Zeller. "Each premier, lightweight, active duty wheelchair of the type used at the hospital costs $285.00."

Contributions may be directed to the Wheelchair Fund, Casa Colina Hospital, 255 East Bonita Ave., Pomona, 91767.

Wild burro race highlights Big Bear's Miners Days

Big Bear Lake is situated in a peaceful little valley, high in the San Bernardino Mountains above the city of San Bernardino. About the only noise heard is the yell of a thrilled fisherman as he brings in a prize trout, or the sound of skis rushing down a ski slope on a bright clear day. Big Bear is a favorite year 'round resort for those who like to take hikes, ride horses, and just enjoy the fresh clean air.

But each year the peace and calm is broken by one of Southern California's more interesting events, Old Miner's Days. This is not just another weekend, small town event, but a giant festival that runs ten days (some say eleven) from July 30 through August 8 (or 9). Old Miner's Days is like other pioneer days with midway, carnival, street dancing, greased pigs, pit eating contest, old time fashion show and melodrama theatre. But Big Bear adds their own special ingredient - a 40 mile, three day wild burro race. The race often attracts up to 100 burros in the derby. These wild burros are not to be found anywhere. In fact they're not even found in the San Bernardino Mountains, but out in the Southern California desert. Each burro must be rounded up and numbered. Following the race, burros are returned to their desert homesteads. Racing a burro is nothing like racing a horse. First the burro is wild and not at all cooperative. Second, each leg of the race is a full day, walk in itself, without tugging an obstinate burro. Third a wrangler doesn't ride the burro, he must push and pull the whole three days.

Once the race starts, each wrangler must pack his or her (yes, the girls like the contest, too!) burro with a ground cloth, two blankets, a canteen, gold pan and shovel. All items must still be on the burro at the end of the race.

After three days of pushing and pulling, being kicked and bitten, under the hot August sun at an elevation of nearly 7,000 feet, the wrangler soon finds this is not a race for anyone, but only for the hardy. But all this time he is being driven by the one thought - the $500 first prize presented to the winner.

The eleventh day, Monday August 9 at 3:22 a.m., bills, lawsuits and complaints accumulated during the celebration may be filed at the ghost town of Doble, about eight miles east of town. But of course there won't be anyone there to receive these, but it's all part of the fun and the end of the Old Miner's Day Celebration for another year.

Surfers Caravan

This year, for the first time, the Pomona Valley "Y" will conduct a Surf Caravan for Jr. High and High School boys. Surfers, Skin Divers, Swimmers and Beach Combers are all welcome to go.

The caravan will leave the Pomona "Y" at 9 a.m. on Friday, August 2, and will return on Friday, August 9. It will travel directly to Angel's Camp (about 50 miles below the border) and take several 1-day trips using Angel's as our base camp. It will visit K-38, K-39, 3 M's, the stacks and take a special trip to Encinada. The fee will be $50 for members and $55 for non-members.

For further information, please contact the YMCA at 623-6433.

Summer classes at Pilgrim School

Two summer short sessions for children with learning difficulty are scheduled at the Pilgrim School for the Neurologically Handicapped at 9950 Fremont Ave., Montclair. The main emphasis in the two booster type sessions is on the three Rs said Rev. Fred Reed, principal and founder of the school.

"This is a remedial program and an individualized program," Rev. Reed said, "for kindergarten through high school."

Classes in the first session which will run from July 28 through July 30 will be held from nine until two.

The second session set for August 2, through August 27, will begin at eight a.m. and end at noon. "We use the success motivation factor," Rev. Reed said. "We take each child back to the level where he can succeed in each subject before we proceed."

Pilgrim School for the Neurologically Handicapped was founded seven years ago with seven students who had either learning or behavior problems.

Reed, who suffered brain damage in a childhood accident says he likes to think of his course as the process of overcoming.

More information about the school or the booster sessions can be obtained by calling 626-6007.

'Shunpiking' is for Sunday

Ever go "shunpiking"? As the modern term for Sunday driving, points out the National Automobile Club, "shunpiking" probably has you for a devoted participant because it leads away from the big squeeze in our highly populated cities to the breathing space and solitude of our rural areas.

There you discover the variety of verdant countryside instead of the monotony of city houses lined up one after another, majestic mountains instead of huge skyscrapers, quiet, winding roads instead of superhighways.

The Sunday drive treats you to outdoor beauty. With no rush-rush business about this pastime, you feel free to satisfy such whims as following a dancing river, investigating the remains of historic structures, or exploring hidden valleys.

On this type of drive, you have time to stop and watch such amusing little scenes as horses frolicking in a pasture or chipmunks scurrying about in search of food. In the same way, bird watching might make your day complete.

Then too, you Californians have the good fortune of living in a state with abundant natural wonders, with a wide selection of scenic drives from which to choose. To name just a few of the latter, the Seventeen-Mile Drive around Monterey Peninsula and the Rim-of-the-World Drive from San Bernardino to Big Bear Lake please Sunday drivers no end.

Wrong-way freeway accidents investigated

Wrong-way freeway drivers were responsible for just over six per cent of the fatality rate on California's divided highways last year, according to the Division of Highways. In thirty-six fatal incidents Statewide, fifty-three persons were killed, down about ten per cent from 1969.

In the District 8 area - San Bernardino County and western Riverside County - two wrong-way accidents during 1970 resulted in three deaths, compared to five incidents and seven fatalities in 1969.

The level and persistence of this class of accident disturbs highway specialists and safety experts alike. A rash of these accidents about a year ago aroused considerable public interest, but appears in retrospect to have been a random concentration and not an upward trend.

A safety review of all freeway interchanges was conducted at the time which led to improvement of some locations. Vegetation was found to have obscured some signs, and in some areas improved night lighting was provided.

In the judgment of highway engineers, however, the distinctive pavement markings, directional signs, and conspicuous wrong-way warnings, now familiar to all who drive were seen to be adequately inhibiting wrong-way entries at freeway off-ramps.

Under an expanded 5-point program just getting under way, highway engineers are re-examining past concepts in renewed efforts to come to grips with the problem. Standard signing and lighting is being reviewed for improved effectiveness. Surveillance is being carried out in suspected problem areas, to include field review by investigative teams. New standards, as developed, will be incorporated into the early planning and design stages of future construction projects.

Emphasis is now being placed on better understanding the reasons and circumstances which lead to wrong-way situations. In addition to the highly dangerous wrong-way entries at freeway off-ramps, there are even more obscure cases involving U-turns and unaccountable reversal of direction in the same lanes. In the local two-county area last year, wrong-way citations were issued in thirty separate cases of infraction. Some offenses may go undetected and unreported, but the far stronger likelihood is for violent collision and multiple fatalities, to usually involve the blameless right-way driver. For the latter, defensive strategy dictates crowding hard to the right. The adverse driver will be favoring his right as a consequence to normal driving habit.

Highway studies to date reflect comparatively fewer wrong-way violations at standard diamond interchanges than where loop connections exist. A higher number of incidents occur at night. More senior citizens are involved than are other age groups. The year, traffic engineers from the District 8 office in San Bernardino have been conducting investigations at interchanges in selected locations where statistics appear to show a susceptibility toward wrong-way movements. A mechanical means has been devised to record improper turns near freeway ramp terminals. Methods are also being developed and tested to determine the ratio of unlawful U-turns on the freeway.

In time, all freeway interchanges in the State will undergo extensive investigation. The current program is expected to continue for three to four years, both because of the large number of interchanges to be surveyed, and the requirement for approximately thirty days of study at each.

Experimental testing continues in the search for improved methods of control and final resolution of the problem, not necessarily limited to signing. Currently, for example, a raised strip of pavement is being tested for possible use at ramp terminals which would cause a decided jarring effect on the wrong-way driver, but no undue discomfort for the motorist exiting normally. The arrangement may also lend itself to modified use with warning lights under the section of pavement, visible only when approached from the wrong direction. Attention is likewise being given to more strongly inducing proper turns by enhancing freeway entrances, as opposed to exits. Other methods have been considered and numerous suggestions explored which have been offered both by professionals and members of the driving public.

In District 8, ten to twelve interchange locations at a time will be under continuing review until completion of the current program. Approximately $450,000 has been allocated, Statewide, for the study. Motorists will generally not be too aware of the activity since the devices used in detecting wrong-way starts are a modification of the familiar traffic-counter hose recognized by most drivers.

Have fun go to school

What are you doing this summer while the family is at the beach, or the mountains or back East? University of California Extension has 87 programs scheduled for the summer quarter on subjects ranging from speed reading and gourmet cooking for fun to a seminar on pulmonary diseases and constructive family fighting. Just the thing for those odd days and nights when the house is so quiet.

Extension registration is now open for the programs that range in length from one evening to five or six weeks. While a majority of Extension courses will meet on the UCR campus, there are also programs slated for Montclair, Blahop, Redlands, Bloomington, Idyllwild, Pomona and San Bernardino.

Extension will again offer several summer field trips including a raft trip through the gorges of the Colorado River. Shoot the rapids of the Colorado on a motor-driven raft, landing each night for dinner ashore and sleeping under the stars. An evening lecture at UCR August 11 precedes the field trip, September 1-5.

Also scheduled for exploration outdoors will be a trek along the John Muir Trail in the High Sierras, a two-day trip to the recesses of the Grand Canyon on mule-back, five days of excursions into the Owens Valley and Inyo National Forest, and three weekends in local areas with Oscar Clarke to examine the interrelationships between plants and animals.

Extension courses are open to all adults regardless of educational background who feel they could benefit from university-level study. Extension fees may be charged on BankAmericard.

Extension catalogs listing details of these and other programs are free and may be obtained by contacting University of California Extension, Riverside; phone (714) 787-4105.

Location is important in house hunting

What's the most important factor in judging the value of a house -- size, style, yard, neighborhood, construction?

"No. Almost any Realtor or other real estate broker will tell you it's a location," answered Tony Beltrutti, President, Ontario - Upland - Chino Board of Realtors. "A poorly designed, small house near schools, churches, transportation, shopping and recreation will usually rank as high in value as a well designed larger house remote from those facilities."

"That doesn't mean, however, that a family shopping for a house to buy should necessarily settle for less house to achieve better location," he said. Just be aware of its effect on price. A house conveniently between an elementary school and shopping, for instance, could be within walking distance of each.

Competition being the name of the game in pricing most commodities, including housing, both groups will look kindly on that location. Either group might find more house for the money or lower price on the opposite side of those facilities.

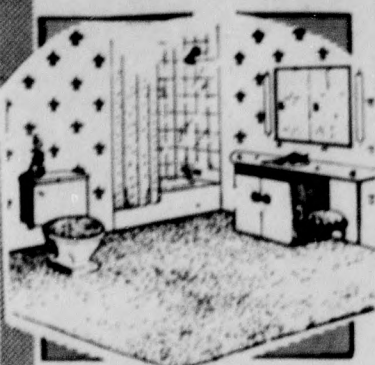

The illustration is probably over simplified because the family with children will look for bus lines to the shopping district, another factor in location, or consider buying a second car.

It does indicate, however, that if a prospective home buyer is willing to sacrifice one or more conveniences of location, he can lower the price of his purchase. If he's conscious of trends in the community, even those sacrifices could be temporary. A new shopping center down the boulevard five years from now could cancel that shortcoming and increase the value of his property.

Most buyers are not sure enough of their forecasting ability to anticipate such effects on value so they choose the location that is best today.

If you are a female between 18 and 26 years of age, single, have a high school education and would like to travel you may be eligible for the NAVY WAVE Program. A woman accepted for the Waves has the opportunity to learn a trade and be of a service to her country at the same time.

Designated as Yeomanettes in World War I, more than 11,000 women served in the Navy, most of them as stenographers. World War II saw 100,000 women again entering the Navy, this time under the name WAVES (Women Accepted for Volunteer Emergency Service), and serving in more than 20 occupational fields from Journalists to Electronic Technicians.

For further information concerning the WAVE Program, contact your Navy Recruiter at 10665 Mills St., Montclair, or call 621-4213.

Doheny Beach camp filled

The State Department of Parks and Recreation announced today that Doheny State Beach in Orange County will not be open to reserved camping until after the end of summer 1971.

The day-use portion of the park will continue to remain open, and campsites are available on a first-come, first-served basis, but the permanent campground area will be closed until work on the park's new sewer system and construction of new comfort stations and shower buildings are completed.

The permanent campground will have 115 campsites, each with a table, stove, and water nearby. Two shower buildings and three comfort stations with flush toilets are being built. The temporary campground has 85 sites, each with a table and fire ring and nearby water and chemical toilets.

The department said that reservations for camping at the permanent campground will be taken after September 1, and that actual camping will be allowed sometime after the middle of September.

Padua play authentic

The sound and color of Jalisco, Mexico, resounds from the stage of Padua Hills Theatre, near Claremont in "Romanero de Jalisco", an authentic folk dance, music and costumes are reproduced in two fast-paced acts through July 24.

Famous for their truthful presentation of the performing arts of Mexico, the Mexican Players offer an especially colorful play for this, the opening of summertime at Padua Hills. Each performance will be followed by "Jamaica", an outdoor fiesta, in which the theatre audience is invited to participate.

Longtime patrons, as well as first time visitors, will be enchanted with the "trip to Mexico" as provided by the year round folk plays at Padua Hills. The grounds and buildings are also satisfyingly similar to those one would find in various states and regions of Mexico.

Since 1932, the Mexican Players at Padua Hills Theatre have been presenting plays about the life, customs and folk music of Mexico. Now second generations of players appear on stage-performing, many times, for second and third generations of patrons who return often to enjoy the productions.

The lobby of Padua Hills Theatre is like the living room of a large hacienda and intentionally so. Theatre patrons are welcomed as visitors. Serving hours for Mexican and American entrees are convenient for those wishing to eat before performances.

The plays at Padua Hills year round folk theatre are presented at 8:30 p.m. on Wednesdays thru Saturdays with matinees at 2:30 on Wednesdays and Saturdays. Reservations for dining room and theatre are not always necessary, but are recommended. (714) 626-1288.

Wives-daughters get benefits

Several wives, daughters, and a son are among the nation's first trainees approved for educational benefits under the recent prisoner of war law, the Veterans Administration reported recently.

Public Law 91-584 -- signed December 24, 1970 -- provides educational and G.I. home loan benefits to wives and children of members of the Armed Forces missing in action or who have been prisoners of war for more than 90 days.

VA noted that one of the first dependents approved for educational benefits under the new law was Mrs. Jana Walker, whose husband was shot down over North Vietnam in January of 1968.

Mrs. Walker received her certificate of eligibility from VA, and is already working on a doctorate in education at the University of Tulsa -- the same university from which she earned the Bachelor and Master of Arts degrees.

Mrs. Doris M. Dingwall of Orem, Utah, has been approved for educational benefits under the new law and is in her junior year, majoring in genealogy, at Brigham Young University. Her husband was reported missing in action in North Vietnam July 8, 1965.

Mrs. Yolanda Stier of San Diego has had her application approved, and plans to spend the next two years earning a certificate as a technician in radiology at Mesa College. She is the wife of Lt. Theodore Stier, whose plane was shot down near Hanoi in November 1967.

Nineteen-year-old Cathy Lynn Profilet of Seattle plans to enter Seattle Community College soon, then transfer later to the University of Washington to work toward the Master of Arts degree in art or history.

Cathy's father, Capt. Lee Twyman Profilet, has been a prisoner of war in North Vietnam for about a year.

Cynthia Berry of Denver, an 18-year-old freshman at the University of Northern Colorado State University, have also been approved for educational benefits. They are the children of Capt. Perry H. Jefferson, who was listed as missing in action in Ninh Thuan Province, Vietnam, April 3, 1969. Cynthia and Richard plan careers in education.

Recipients of educational benefits draw $175 monthly if they attend school full time, $128 for three-quarter time attendance, and $81 for half-time.

New tax 'referees'

California's 161 State Inheritance Tax Appraisers will legally end their service June 30 and on July 1 will be replaced by State Inheritance Tax Referees in conformance with a reform law passed by the 1970 Legislature, State Controller Houston I. Flournoy announced today.

"This will mark great progress in reform of a procedure which I have often said contains the last vestiges of the spoils system in California government," said Flournoy who for six years has advocated total abolition of the appointed appraisers. The new law, which was authored by Sen. Gordon Cologne, R-Riverside, enacted many reforms which the Controller already had instituted by administrative order. Flournoy said he will appoint the referees from lists of applicants who include incumbent appraisers among the qualified applicants for the referee positions, he said.

The Controller said the final evaluation of applicants is underway. He expects to announce his selections later in June. In the nine counties without qualified applicants he is permitted to make interim appointments. In 17 counties with less than three qualified candidates he has the option of designating a referee from another county to serve until the vacancy can be filled.

Flournoy said he will take advantage of the reorganization under the new law to make the number of referees in each county as compatible as possible with the individual county work load. Thus, some counties may have more referees than they now have appraisers, while other counties may have fewer, he said. The law requires at least one referee in each county.

The new law prescribes a four-year term for referees but also directs the Controller to stagger the terms of the first group of appointees so that about one fourth expire each year, with the first terms expiring June 30, 1972. The existing law sets no term on the appraisers who now serve at the will of the Controller.

Inheritance Tax Referees will be paid, as are the present appraisers, according to a statutory fee schedule based on the value of the estates they appraise. However, the new law exempts bank and savings and loan accounts, and other cash type assets from fee appraisal by the referees. The new law also prohibits campaign contributions to the State Controller by Inheritance Tax Referees, and limits their contributions to other candidates.

Tourists' expenditures up

Between 1960 and 1970, visitor expenditures in Southern California have risen 110%, according to the Southern California Visitors Council. The competition for the $1.5 billion visitors brought to Southern California last year alone is rising as ease of transportation and new foreign attractions increase.

Hanging loose is sloth's life

For utterly relaxed, leisurely living, it's hard to beat the two-toed sloth, a slow-moving, coarse-haired, energy-conserving mammal from the jungles of South America. The 20-pound sloth spends his whole life "hanging loose"—upside down—from branches; eating, sleeping, mating, even giving birth in that unlikely position.

The Los Angeles Zoo has a pair of these interesting animals on exhibit in the Children's Zoo where they can be observed at close range, hanging like a couple of women's wigs from a branch in the nursery window.

When animal keepers place a pan of lettuce, vegetables and fruits beneath their bough, the brown "wigs" slowly unfold to reveal bright little faces with shiny noses, and feet with long, strong curved claws.

Revealed also is the sloth's unusual pattern of hair growth, draped from belly to back instead of the reverse direction common to other mammals.

It may take a sloth five minutes to eat a lettuce leaf, several more to dispose of a broccoli floret.

Security for a sloth is a pad at the Los Angeles Zoo.

Youth culture today -- conformists tomorrow

Unconventional youths will become conformists concerned with money and materialism when they enter the competitive job market of the '70s.

So says Peter F. Drucker, management consultant and professor of social sciences at Claremont Graduate School.

In an article written for the July Harper's Magazine, Drucker analyzes the youth culture and predicts the impact of youth on the next decade.

"This country will return to a preoccupation with the traditional economic worries," he says. He cites the population trend as a reason: 1971 will be the last year that 17- and 18-year-olds will be the center of gravity of our population. With the end of the baby boom, the center of population gravity will shift gradually upward.

"...young adults from 21 to 35... tend to be the most conventional group in the population, and the one most concerned with concrete and immediate problems."

As a result, the generation gap may be between college-age youth and young hard-hats who have gone to work after high school, Drucker believes.

"It is just conceivable that the 19-year-old hard-hat—precisely because he is already exposed to the realities of economic life which are soon to shock college graduates—prefers the values, the attitudes, and the concerns to which today's youth will switch tomorrow," he says.

"During each year of the next decade, we will have to find jobs for 40 percent more people than in each of the past 10 years," he says.

Drucker believes this problem can be solved

only by providing more capital to create new jobs.

"This is particularly true of the jobs we will need the most—jobs for highly educated people who are supposed to work with knowledge rather than with their hands,"

he says. "The greater the skill or knowledge demanded by a job, the greater the capital investment needed to make it possible."

He estimates that "on the average a 'knowledge

job' in the American economy today—whether in business, education, or government—requires a prior investment of something like $20,000."

We cannot draw this needed money from the national economy, Drucker says; "we have barely been maintaining our existing capital resources."

Neither can deficit

spending fill the gap; it cannot "create a full employment economy"

when capital is in short supply," he says. Because of the job shortage "economics is not likely to fade out of the public consciousness.

The graduates from today's youth culture are likely to find themselves far more worried about jobs and money than they now suspect.

"The majority of the youth are acquiring advanced educations and are unlikely to go into manual work. The bulk of tomorrow's employment will be in service trades, knowledge jobs—in health care, teaching, government, management, research, and the like. And no one knows much about the productivity of knowledge work, let alone how to improve it."

Drucker finds productivity a necessity since

"the 'cost squeeze' of today, on governments,

universities, and business, is the first warning—it is really a productivity squeeze. The only way out of it is for the nonmanual employee,

whether he is a knowledge worker or an apprentice, to become more productive. In his own interest, he will find he has to push for this."

BARBECUED LUNCH MEAT KABOBS (Serves 6)

With summer weekend parades in full swing, now is the time for camp-fire cooking and eating. Who cares if the fish aren't biting! Substitute these campers' kabobs made with cubes of canned luncheon meat and topped with a spicy cranberry sauce for an appealing outdoor barbecue menu.

2 cans (12 ounces each) canned luncheon meat
Green pepper squares, boiled onions, canned whole mushrooms, cherry tomatoes
1 tablespoon instant minced onion
1 tablespoon water
1 can (8 ounces) Ocean Spray jellied cranberry sauce
Juice of 1 lemon (4 tbsp.) (or use 2 tbsp. lemon juice and 2 tbsp. cider vinegar)
 $\frac{1}{4}$ cup melted butter or margarine
 $\frac{1}{4}$ teaspoon grated lemon peel

Cut luncheon meat into 2 halves lengthwise. Cut each piece into 6 cubes. Thread cubes of meat, green pepper, boiled onions, mushrooms, and tomatoes on a skewer. Combine onion and water, let stand 10 minutes for onion to soften. Add onion to remaining ingredients and brush over gray coals about 10 minutes on each side brushing with glaze every few minutes. Serve on a toasted hero loaf. Close bun and remove skewer. If any glaze remains, reserve for future use with pork or chicken.

Ping-Pong balls clear the air

Ping pong balls, which in recent weeks have become tools of international diplomacy, are about to join the battle for air purity on the domestic front.

They will have important roles in an accelerated air pollution control research program which is about to get under way at the Mohave Generating Station in Clark County, Nevada.

Actually, three separate R & D programs are planned at Mohave this year aimed at developing design data and testing different improvements in large-scale scrubber systems for reducing sulfur dioxide from the new plant's stack gas and removing particulate matter not captured by the already installed electrostatic precipitators, explained Jack B. Moore, vice president of Southern California Edison Company, one of the participants in the Mohave Power Project.

But the ping pong balls will be used only in the first of the three research programs -- a million-dollar effort called "The Navajo/Mohave SO₂ Removal Research Program."

According to Moore, this initial four-phase effort will be conducted by Bechtel Corporation, with Edison acting as program manager. Costs of the research effort will be shared by the utilities participating in the Mohave Project, as well as those engaged in constructing the Navajo Generating Station at Page, Arizona. The Salt River Project is manager of the Navajo Project, he noted, and will have a representative serving with an Edison representative on a two-man board of control for the research study.

The table tennis balls will be piled on trays to test one of four different types of "wet-scrubber" systems, the SCE engineering executive said. The many balls provide a large surface area for improved contact between the gas and liquid passing through the scrubber, he explained. The other types of scrubbers to be analyzed and tested in this first program include a spray tower and a "packed-bed."

Moore said that pilot plant tests will be conducted at Mohave on the four types of scrubbers utilizing three different chemicals -- limestone, lime and soda ash (sodium carbonate). A process for regenerating soda ash with lime also will be tested, he added.

Scrubbers, it was explained, are intended to cleanse the effluent of a stack by absorption. The experimentation hopefully will determine which type of absorber vessels and absorbing agents work the best, and Moore emphasized test results will determine whether any of these processes could be adapted to the Mohave Generation Station or other large coal-fired generating stations in the Southwest.
